Unity Physician Partners Expands Medical Home Concept to Clarksville

Emerging medical/behavioral health practice expands its footprint to Clarksville, TN with new clinic location.

FRANKLIN, TN – Unity Physician Partners, Inc. has expanded into Clarksville, TN with a new clinic location at 511 Eighth Street. The practice will be home to Dr. Oba Hollie, MD, who joins Unity Medical Clinic from the Matthew Walker Comprehensive Health Center, Nashville, TN. Dr. Hollie brings significant experience in broad care coordination, diabetes care, and other areas of primary care.

The new clinic model aligns strategically with Unity’s mission to not only fill the gap of those underserved medically, but also encompasses defined models of care for diabetes and other chronic conditions. This new model has gained growing and widespread acceptance from almost every insurance carrier in the State, as it has demonstrable results for improved outcomes and significantly reduced costs to patients and insurers.

“We are quite proud to align with Dr. Hollie and expand into Clarksville with our innovative model of care,” says Michael Bailey, CEO and co-founder of Unity Physician Partners. “We will exceed the expectations of those needing greater access to high quality care in the region.”

Dr. Hollie completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Memphis and earned his Doctor of Medicine at Meharry Medical College. He completed residencies in internal medicine at the University of Tennessee and Baptist Hospital in Nashville.

Unity’s footprint has recently expanded from its three-clinic base in Nashville to Memphis and Cookeville, TN, as well as Bloomington and Columbus, IN. Expansion is underway in two additional states with details forthcoming. As a joint partner with Centerstone Behavioral Health of Nashville, Unity offers services in conjunction with Centerstone’s existing clinic footprint and beyond.
